Responsibility for the Detection and Prevention of Fraud

Responsibility of Employees: It is the responsibility of all employees to conduct their College business in such a way as to prevent fraud occurring in the workplace. Employees must also be alert to the possibilities for fraud and be on guard for any indications that improper or dishonest activity is taking place.

Responsibility of Management

It is the responsibility of the administration to be familiar with the types of improprieties that might occur in their area and be alert for any indication that improper activity, misappropriation or dishonest activity is or was in existence in his or her area and put in place controls to avoid such occurrences.

Administrators are required to support and work with other involved departments and law enforcement agencies in the detection, reporting, and investigation of dishonest or fraudulent activity including the prosecution of offenders. If a fraud is detected in an area, the administrator or manager is responsible for taking appropriate corrective actions to ensure adequate controls exist to prevent reoccurrence of improper actions.
Reporting Fraud

It is the responsibility of all College employees to report suspicions of fraud without delay according to the procedure below. Persons who cover up, obstruct, or fail to report, will be considered to be an accessory after the fact and may be subject to disciplinary action and/or discharge. Persons who threaten retaliation against a person reporting a suspected fraud shall be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Great care must be taken in dealing with suspected dishonest or fraudulent activities to avoid:

- Incorrect accusations
- Alerting suspected individuals to an investigation underway
- Treating employees unfairly
- Making statements that could lead to claims of false accusations or other charges

The incident, facts, suspicions, or allegations should not be discussed with anyone inside or outside the College unless specifically directed to do so by the College officer investigating the incident.

Fraud can be detected at any level within the College and the following general principles should apply in the reporting of suspected fraud:

- A person who suspects that a fraudulent practice may be operating should, in the first instance, report the matter to his/her Dean or immediate supervisor. Should it be inappropriate to make such a report to an immediate supervisor, the report should be made to a higher level, directly to the Chief Fiscal Officer or the President or to the Chair of the District Board of Trustees if the suspicion involves the President’s office.

- Once a report of suspected fraud is made to a supervisor/manager that person should report the suspicion to their Dean or immediate supervisor, to the Chief Fiscal Officer, or to the President. A Dean or immediate supervisor on receipt of a report of a suspected fraud should then report the matter to the Chief Academic Officer in the case of an academic employee and the Chief Fiscal Officer for all other employees.

- No investigation of the suspected fraud should take place until the President has been informed. Note: any suspected fraud involving the President’s office shall be reported to the Chair of the District Board of Trustees.

Procedures for the Investigation of Alleged Fraud

The Chief Academic Officer or the Chief Fiscal Officer will (except in any case involving the Office) have the responsibility for coordinating the College’s response and will seek expert legal advice from the College’s legal counsel or other advice if required.

The Chief Academic Officer or the Chief Fiscal Officer will notify the appropriate staff, who will, if appropriate, conduct an initial investigation to gather factual information and reach a preliminary determination as to whether further action is required. The findings, conclusions, and recommendations will be reported to the appropriate Administrator, President or the Chair of the District Board of Trustees if appropriate.

Where initial investigation provides reasonable grounds for suspecting an employee of fraud or a dishonest activity, the relevant Administrator or the President will decide if any actions are necessary to prevent further loss. This may require, in consultation with the President, the suspension with or without pay of the member or members of staff (which will take place in accordance with Board Policies) and/or the decision as to whether further investigation is required.

Each case will be considered individually in accordance with the expert advice obtained with a view to minimizing the losses (both monetary and otherwise) to the College. Having reached a decision as to what further action is necessary and how such actions should be undertaken, the Chief Academic Officer or the Chief Fiscal Officer will communicate with the affected employee and the employee’s supervisor.

Results of fraud investigations will be considered and the internal control structure assessed so that a similar recurrence of the same or similar fraud can be prevented or at least promptly detected by the relevant Administrator and staff in the future. Documentation regarding the findings, conclusions, and recommendations, following consultation with the relevant department(s), will be maintained.

Accounting for Loss, Restitution, and Recovery

The department incurring the loss from a dishonest or fraudulent act will normally suffer the loss until monies can be recovered through insurance or restitution.

If the suspected incident involves the Office of the Chief Fiscal Officer, the President shall undertake the role and functions specified for the Chief Fiscal Officer. If the suspected incident involves the President’s office, the Chair of the District Board of Trustees will direct such accountability.

Disciplinary Action

The Human Resources Office will be consulted for any employee disciplinary actions resulting from fraudulent activity.

Documentation related to such employee discipline will be maintained in the employee’s personnel file.
