FINAL EXAM, online April 30th (1 PM) – May 3rd (11 PM)

Due to unforeseen events, alteration of the assignment schedule may be necessary. If such occurs, I shall do my best to inform you as early as possible.

Course Content- Philosophy is the activity of examining, clarifying, and attempting to provide adequate responses to fundamental questions, such as: What is real? Do I experience the world as it really is, or is the world in some way dependent upon my experiencing it? What is truth? Can I be certain about anything? Does God exist? Would knowing whether or not God exists make any difference? Do I have a mind that is separate from my brain? Do I have free will, or are my actions determined by the laws of physics like everything else? Are these genuinely well-formed questions in the first place, or are they just mistaken uses of language? We shall consider some of the best approaches to these issues from 2,500 years of philosophy. Your personal views are of interest in this course only in so far as they can be supported by sound reasoning and clear expression.

Grades- (1) Tests: You will have four, online tests (tests I, II, III, and a final), each of which will consist of 25 multiple-choice questions plus an essay. Tests I, II, and III will each cover a specific portion of the class material, while the final will cover the rest of the semester's material and will also be cumulative. I shall drop your lowest test grade (but not the final). If you miss a test, that will count for your dropped grade. If you miss a second test, you will receive a zero for that test. If you miss the final, you fail the course. (2) Grade Calculation: Tests -- 75% total; and class participation/discussion boards -- 25%. (3) Commitment: Students who are sincerely committed to success in this course will not fail. Evidence of sincere commitment includes regular and substantial class participation. (4) Posting of Grades: Final grades will be posted online. I shall not give you your grade earlier. (5) Grading Scale: A=100-90; B+ = 89-87; B=86-80; C+ = 79-77; C=76-70; D=69-60; F=59 or below.
