Section 1: Introduction

Sharing the College of Central Florida Story

The College of Central Florida's brand identity is a tangible expression of all that we represent. Our students, employees and community experience the CF brand through our deeds, as well as through the verbal and visual messages we send. Our brand is more than a logo. Our brand is everything we say and do and how we say and do it.

To keep this guide as a valuable reference tool, we invite your feedback. Please direct corrections or suggestions for improvements to the Department of Marketing and Public Relations at pr@cf.edu.

Marketing and Public Relations at CF

The Marketing and Public Relations office provides marketing and public relations services, as needed, for all CF campuses, centers, departments and entities. Whether you want to promote a student performance or print T-shirts for a college event, MPR should be your first stop. We are located in the Ewers Century Center, Room 102, at the Ocala Campus.

To request services from Marketing and Public Relations, please visit www.CF.edu/MPRservices. Submit basic details and a member of the MPR team will contact you if additional details are required.

Advertising

MPR creates and coordinates placement of all college advertising, including newspaper and magazine, online, radio and other media to support enrollment and promote college events. The college has negotiated special rates to ensure the best use of college funds. All advertising should be coordinated through the MPR department.

Communications Center

The Communications Center is located in the lobby of the Ocala Campus Ewers Century Center and can be reached at CFinfo@cf.edu or 352-873-5800.

Team members respond to telephone inquiries for information and assist walk-in visitors. They also update information for the plasma screen televisions.

Community Relations

MPR assists with outreach and community events, including receptions, award programs, community initiatives, etc.

Media Relations

MPR serves as the news bureau for the college, creating and distributing news releases about college events and accomplishments, as well as handling media inquiries. Requests for the office to create a news release should be submitted at least one month prior to the event or immediately following presentation of an award or honor. See Section 7: Media Relations for full information.

Photography/Videography

MPR frequently photographs college events for marketing and historical purposes. Limited videography services are also available. iPads are available for employee checkout for photography or video projects for events that we are unable to accommodate.

Publications

MPR produces promotional and informational materials including the annual report, viewbook, Connection magazine, CF Fact Book, campus brochures, postcards, and a series of more than 100 rack-style cards for college programs and services. The office also provides assistance in creating promotional materials for other departments.

CF Insider, an online news blog, is updated several times each week and is available at CFInsider.org. News and events are shared through CF Insider with faculty, staff and retirees. A broadcast with highlighted items is distributed via email. CF Insider also includes Board Reports, a summary of CF District Board of Trustees meetings.

Proofreading

Print or digital materials, including posters, flyers, brochures, programs, bookmarks, T-shirts, promotional items and any material not created for classroom use, should be submitted to Marketing and Public Relations for review and approval per College Policy 3.06: College Publications. See Section 6: Proofreading for full information.

Social Media

The use of social media by the Marketing and Public Relations Department and any sub units of the college are governed by Social Media Management Administrative Procedure, implemented in June 2021. For guidelines, see Section 8: Social Media.

Templates

The MPR team has created branded, easy-to-use templates for PowerPoint presentations, flyers and more. Download at Inside.CF.edu/Departments/Marketing.

Website

The CF website is focused on marketing to reinforce enrollment goals. Marketing and Public Relations maintains the website with input from content managers throughout the college. See Section 4: Website.

Workshops

Several times each year, Marketing and Public Relations holds workshops on creating flyers, social media best practices, and related topics. Customized workshops are also available for your group or department.

Additional Marketing Services

Request these and other marketing services at www.CF.edu/MPRservices.

- Creation of business cards and name badges

Deadline and Priority Consideration

Please provide adequate time for the MPR team to give your project the attention it deserves. Keep in mind that our staff, in addition to our ongoing duties, completes more than 3,000 requested jobs each year, including ads, news releases, photo sessions, proofreading, name badges and business cards, flyers, etc. Our request process via www.CF.edu/MPRservices ensures that your projects are received, assigned, tracked and completed in a timely manner.

Section 2: Brand Framework

The college vision, mission, core values and accreditation statement are provided here as reference. It may be appropriate or even required for you to include one or more of these statements in the materials you create. Whenever they are included, they must appear precisely as presented here.

Vision

Your first choice for quality higher education.

Mission

We transform lives and enrich our community by providing a supportive, high-quality learning environment that prepares individuals to excel in work and life.

Core Values

We Empower: Cultivating individual and collective strength.

We Engage: Being fully present and involved in the success of our students, faculty, staff and community.

We Excel: Committing to the highest standards of academic quality, performance and service.

Accreditation

College of Central Florida is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) to award associate and baccalaureate degrees. Questions about the accreditation of the College of Central Florida may be directed in writing to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, GA 30033-4097, by calling (404) 679-4500, or by using information available on SACSCOC's website (www.sacscoc.org). College of Central Florida is also approved by the Florida Department of Education to award associate degrees, baccalaureate degrees, college credit certificates and occupational certificates.

Avoiding Misrepresentation

The College of Central Florida strives to provide accurate, honest and clear information in print, online, broadcast media or oral presentations. The college will make every effort to avoid misrepresentation to students and others in communications made in writing, visually, orally or through other means. Training of employees to avoid any form of misrepresentation as they disseminate communications is a key component of this procedure. All misrepresentations should be avoided. However, this procedure specifically applies to the three areas covered by statute 20 USC § 1094(c)(3). Those three areas include:

- the nature of the institution's educational programs
- the institution's financial charges
- the employability of the institution's graduates.

Statement of Nondiscrimination

Inclusion of Statement of Nondiscrimination

The College of Central Florida is regularly reviewed by the Florida Department of Education Division of Florida Colleges to determine compliance with federal and state nondiscrimination requirements. The college is required to publish its nondiscrimination statement on all major publications, including recruitment materials, posters, brochures, financial aid publications forms, application forms, handbooks, course schedules, and on websites pertaining to all major student and employee related links. Nearly every print project, other than most classroom materials, must include the statement.

When space allows, please include this long version that has been approved by the CF District Board of Trustees. Use Arial Narrow font, no less than 7 points.

College of Central Florida offers equal access and opportunity in employment, admissions and educational activities. The college will not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, sex, age, marital status, national origin, genetic information, veteran status or disability status and any other factors prohibited under applicable federal, state, and local civil rights laws and regulations in its employment practices or in the admission and treatment of students. Recognizing that sexual harassment constitutes discrimination on the basis of sex and violates this policy statement, the college will not tolerate such conduct. The Title IX Coordinator has been designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and can be contacted at the Ocala Campus, 3001 S.W. College Road, at 352-291-4410 or Compliance@cf.edu.

On forms, rack cards, flyers, or other publications one page or less, it is acceptable to use the following concise statement. Use Arial Narrow font, no less than 7 points.

College of Central Florida offers equal access and opportunity in employment, admissions and educational activities. For inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies contact the Title IX Coordinator at 352-291-4410 or Compliance@cf.edu. Visit CF.edu/TitleIX for details.

Material on the website can include a direct link to the full information at the site. A PDF that can be printed from the website must contain the concise statement.

The CF website includes a link to the nondiscrimination page in the footer of each page. Any website associated with CF should also include a link to our nondiscrimination page in its footer. Mass emails sent from the college must include – an equal opportunity college– linked at the bottom of the email.

When using the CF logo, continue to include –an equal opportunity college–. The statement should be in Arial italic font with en dashes. The keyboard shortcut for an en dash is alt+0150.

Spanish Language Translation

Some specific information must be provided in Spanish to meet the needs of our Spanish-speaking community. Marketing and Public Relations staff works with representatives in the appropriate departments to ensure compliance.

- The full nondiscrimination statement is available in Spanish on our website.
- Financial aid information is available in Spanish.

For assistance or clarification about including our nondiscrimination statement or Spanish-language materials, contact Marketing and Public Relations at 352-873-5845.

Section 3: Brand Usage, Identity and Assets

The CF Logo

The most fundamental visual element of a brand identity is its logo. CF's logo is comprised of the CF monogram and the words College of Central Florida. These two elements identify the college graphically and appear on all college publications to clearly enforce the college's brand. The logo and approved variations are available to download at Inside.CF.edu/Departments/Marketing.

When possible, use the full-color version of the horizontal logo. It is required that this version be used in branded applications whenever possible. As one of our most important assets, the landmark must always appear as shown on this page or in one of the color variations described in these guidelines. Never attempt to redraw or rescale the landmark or add other graphic elements to its presentation.

The CF monogram of the horizontal logo, above left, should never be used on its own. If a square logo is preferred for your project, use the box logo, above right, which includes the college name. Please see "Unacceptable Use of Logos" on the next page for some logo usage restrictions.

CF is the only acronym for our college. Do not use CCF or CFCC or Central Florida or CF College.

Acceptable Logo Variations

Clear Space and Minimum Size

Clear space frames the logo, separating it from other elements and keeping it uncluttered, preserving the logo's integrity. The space shown here indicates that there must be a minimum of .25" of clear space surrounding the logo. To preserve the logo's legibility, it is suggested to maintain the minimum size of the logo shown here, at a width of at least 1" for the horizontal logo and .5" for the box logo, for print.

For special uses of the logo for promotional items, please make your request at www.CF.edu/MPRservices.

Any time you use the CF logo, you should use the phrase:

—an equal opportunity college—

The phrase may appear anywhere on the document; however, most choose to place it directly under the logo. Do not use hyphens before and after the phrase; use an en dash. To insert an en dash in Microsoft programs, go to Insert > Symbol > Special Characters or use the keyboard shortcut alt+0150. All words should be lowercase. Use Arial font and italics, no spaces before or after the en dashes.

The official CF logos are available for download at Inside.CF.edu/Departments/Marketing.

CF, CF Foundation, CF Patriots, Appleton Museum of Art and additional college logos are available by request at www.CF.edu/MPRservices. The CF Foundation or CF Patriots logos cannot be used to represent CF as a college.

Unit Logos

The Marketing and Public Relations office has phased out all custom logos that were created prior to 2017 for certain departments and has moved to a standardized format: the CF unit logo. A unit logo comprises the college logo and one sub-brand department name. The visual elements of the unit logo are specifically configured, with each element placed, sized, and rendered in precise relationship to the others to create a unique visual character. Therefore, unit logos should not be altered in any way.

Corporate College

International Student Services

Unacceptable Use of Logos

The consistent and correct application of the CF brandmark is essential. Always follow the standards presented in these guidelines. The examples on this page illustrate some of the unacceptable uses of the CF brandmark.

Avoid skewing or manipulating the shape of the logo.

Avoid using only part of the logo (exceptions with Marketing approval).

Avoid adding image effects to the logo.

Avoid manipulating or altering the color of the logo.

Avoid placing the logo on areas of background that render the logo illegible. Instead of using a white box around the logo, use the reverse or white version when appropriate.

College Seal

The CF seal is the official seal of the college and should be used only on certain special publications and materials, such as the college diploma, certificates, invitations, special events, programs. It should not be used in a casual manner, e.g., on memo pads, newsletters. Do not alter proportion or orientation of the seal. Contact Marketing and Public Relations before using the seal.

Athletics Logo

Below are athletics logos, which may also be used for Student Life apparel and promotional items. Colors are CF Red, CF Blue and white. Request files at www.CF.edu/MPRservices. The standard CF logos (horizontal and box versions) should be used for all print, digital and other materials representing the academic or service areas of the college.

Color Palette

CF's main color palette consists of dark blue, red and cool gray. The two supporting colors are lime green and light blue, which should only be used as accent colors. The colors you select for your publication depend upon several factors, including tone and image you wish to project, your production budget, and whether or not the piece needs to relate to other printed materials. Black text is preferred for body copy, but color might be appropriate on some documents. It's best to find a strong combination of three or four colors, and use that scheme consistently and creatively.

CF colors are also required for clothing, caps and other promotional items as available. Please consult with Marketing and Public Relations about the use of other colors.

Below are the print CMYK color combinations and web HEX codes for each of the approved CF colors.

(Main) CMYK: 100, 70, 0, 40 | HEX#: 00205c

(Main) CMYK: 16, 100, 86, 6 | HEX#: c20430

(Main) CMYK: 0, 0, 0, 10 | HEX#: e6e7e8

(Supporting) CMYK: 34, 2, 83, 1 | HEX#: b3cf58

(Supporting) CMYK: 27, 2, 0, 0 | HEX#: b4def6

Typography

In order to achieve a consistent typographic standard, the college has adopted the Garamond, Palatino Linotype and Arial typefaces to complement the logo. The typefaces were selected for their legibility and flexibility in a number of sizes, and should be used on posters, brochures and flyers, and throughout all of your publications. Occasionally it may be appropriate to utilize a decorative font for headline, title or signature devices. Do not use more than two fonts on a single document.

The majority of this guide is set in Garamond type. Garamond and Palatino are serif fonts with structured details on the end of the strokes. Serif fonts are considered easier to read in large quantities in print projects. Arial is a sans serif type, with no structured details on the strokes. Sans serif types are preferred for headings, captions and Web material.

Headings and Body Text

- Align text left; this is easier to read than justified text. It also avoids excessive and inconsistent spacing between words.
- Do not use smaller than 9-point font for body text; 12-point font is preferred.
- Use one space after a period, not two. The two-space rule was for typewriters, not computers.

- Use tools for emphasis sparingly. You don't want to overuse italics, bold and underlining. USING ALL CAPS REDUCES READABILITY BY 20 PERCENT.
- Overemphasizing text in a document can reduce reading speed, comprehension and legibility.
- Turn off the automatic hyphenation in Microsoft Publisher (Tools > Language > Hyphenation > Uncheck) or other software.
- Avoid "widows." Widows are single lines of text or single words that are left on the bottom or top of a column or page.

Photos should express a unique culture that is encouraging, progressive, non-judgmental, authentic, optimistic and nurturing. Try to use photos that have real candid moments. A natural smile is always better than a forced one. When selecting images with multiple people, keep diversity of age, race, gender and ability in mind.

Photos are available from a number of sources for college projects. Do not copy photographs or logos from the CF website for your publications as they are not high enough resolution for print purposes. Do not copy images from the internet as there may be copyright limitations.

The Marketing and Public Relations Office maintains archives of CF photos. A photo shoot might be appropriate for projects of a larger scope, and stock photographs are available online for a fee. If you need a photo shoot for your event, please make a request via www.CF.edu/MPRservices. If you choose to take your own photographs, have the subject(s) sign the Group Photo Release or Individual Photo Release form, which are available on Inside.CF.edu/forms under Marketing and Public Relations. Consult with Marketing and Public Relations to decide which photo option is best for your project.

When possible, use photos that have identifiable CF elements such as a college building, CF T-shirt, employee name tag, etc.

Resolution Requirements

- Print: 300 px/in (JPG, Tiff, CYMK mode)
- Web: 72 px/in (JPG, RGB mode)
- Video: Recommended minimum 150 px/in

Stationery, Name Badges and Business Cards

CF stationery establishes a visual consistency for the brand and it is the most widely used communication tool within the identity system. All academic and administrative units must use the official CF business cards, letterhead and envelope. You may place an order for printed business cards and/or your name badge through the forms link on Inside.CF.edu/Forms. Letterhead, envelopes and note cards can be ordered through the CF Print Shop. A digital letterhead, which should be used only for digital communications, is available at Inside.CF.edu/Departments/Marketing. Departments that need custom folders should consult with Marketing and Public Relations.

Digital Resources

CF faculty and staff have access to our shared Canva Teams account to easily create professional-looking CF-branded flyers, presentations, social media posts, and other marketing materials. The account gives you access to a whole library of CF brand templates, logos, colors and photos. Instructional videos to log in and access our shared Canva account are in the Flyer Templates section at Inside.CF.edu/Departments/Marketing and Public Relations. Section 4: CF Website

Purpose

College of Central Florida maintains a public website, www.CF.edu, as a tool to communicate the college mission and vision as well as an informational and marketing tool for college educational programs and services.

Ownership

College of Central Florida has a distributed ownership model for its website. The manager of Web Communications and New Media is responsible for the CF content management system interface, functionality and usability as well as being the liaison to college departments and trainer to faculty and staff who update content through the CMS. To have your content updated, please submit a ticket via www.CF.edu/MPRservices. The Marketing and Public Relations director and manager of Marketing and Public Relations also have administrative access and responsibility for review of information and publishing to the public website.

Publishing Permissions

Faculty and staff directly involved in the learning process and those responsible for dissemination of information about college programs and services (such as registration, financial aid, library, etc.) are granted permission to edit the college website by administrators in their area. The manager of Web Communications and New Media is responsible for user permissions and training users on the CMS.

Users will be responsible for accuracy of department and program information to be published. Marketing and Public Relations staff will be responsible for proofing and ultimately publishing pages to the CMS.

Vanity URLs

For easier marketing, short “vanity” URLs are available for any webpage. If you are unsure whether your area of the website has vanity URLs set up, contact the manager of Web Communications and New Media.

Example

(Full URL): <https://www.cf.edu/academics/areas-of-study/business-and-technology/agribusiness-management-program/>

(Vanity URL): www.cf.edu/agribusiness

ADA Compliance

Maintaining an accessible website is crucial for assisting current and prospective students with disabilities as well as staying compliant with regulating bodies. Every website editor plays a role in ensuring ADA compliance. Below is a list of common ADA issues to watch out for.

- Headings out of order. Every web page has a H1 by default, so any content you add should start with an H2, then proceed to H3, H4 and so on.
- Using <bold> or  tags. This compliance issue can be avoided by making sure you’re always pasting content without formatting and then formatting the text using the CMS’s built-in editor.
- Creating non-descriptive links. Linking text like “click here” or “learn more” is not descriptive enough for ADA compliance.
- Using text-heavy images. Never display text as an image, with the exception of logos.

Contact the manager of Web Communications and New Media with any questions about maintaining accessibility.

Training

Formal training sessions are offered throughout the year to provide guidance on use of the CMS and guidelines to ensure web accessibility compliance. Personal instruction and help will be provided on an as needed basis by the manager of Web Communications and New Media. Website training can be requested at www.CF.edu/MPRservices.

Section 5: Style Guidelines

The College of Central Florida follows the writing guidelines of the Associated Press Stylebook for publications unless otherwise noted here. This reference is not intended to be a duplication of that guide, but a supplement for style, consistency, spelling and terms often encountered around the college.

This section contains essential style guidelines for CF publications, which include everything from catalogs and handbooks to posters, flyers and bookmarks. Guidelines have evolved from basic rules of grammar, standard practice and special application for college terminology. In many instances, detailed information is given with examples of acceptable and unacceptable forms, but it would be impossible to devise a guide that would be all-inclusive. In cases where the precise answer is not given in the guide, use the rule of analogy. For example, if a word or group of words is capitalized, it is safe to treat similar words in the same manner, unless there is a specific rule to the contrary.

Abbreviations

Always write out abbreviations in full on first reference unless the entry in the chart that follows reads “do not spell out.” It is typically not necessary to include an acronym in parentheses immediately following the full name.

- Abbreviate titles when they precede the name — Dr., Sen., Rep., Col. — but spell out and lowercase when they follow a name.
- Do not abbreviate professor, assistant professor, associate professor or instructor.
- Do not use Reverend as a title; it is an adjective: the Rev. Joe Jones.
- Never precede the name with title and degree: not CF President Dr. Jim Henningsen, instead Dr. Jim Henningsen, CF president.
- Do not abbreviate days of the week, except within a chart or graph.
- Spell out months without dates: November 2024.
- Abbreviate months with dates, except for March, April, May, June and July.
- Do not use the year unless it is needed to specify a time other than the current year.
- On print projects such as invitations or event programs, include year for archival purposes.
- Generally, do not abbreviate Fort for cities or military installations: Fort McCoy.

- The same abbreviation should be used consistently throughout the copy.
- Spell out the names of states in narrative copy.
- Use postal abbreviations for states only when presented with a full postal address including zip code.

Bullets

Use bullet points to aid scanning, organize information and increase retention. There are two styles of bulleted lists: short-entry lists and long-entry lists. A short-entry list is introduced by a colon and the bullet points start with a lower case letter, run on from the introductory phrase and have a period only at the end of the last item. For example, do use capitals for:

- names and proper nouns
- holidays
- titles.

Items in a long-entry list have at least one complete sentence and end with a period. A long-entry list has no lead in sentence. An example follows.

- Always use capitals for names and proper nouns.
- Always use capitals for names of holidays.
- Always use capitals for titles.

Use parallel construction with lists. Do not mix short and long entries. If one bullet starts with a verb, start all items with a verb, etc.

Capitalization

DO capitalize:

- names and proper nouns
- holidays (for example, New Year's Eve)
- CF — never separate the letters with periods or split from one line to the next
- formal names of schools, departments, units, buildings, offices, etc., but not subsequent shortened references: Webber Center; thereafter, the center
- names of races and nationalities
- official college degrees when spelled out: Associate in Science
- all conferred and traditional educational, occupational and business titles when used in front of a name; do not capitalize a title following an individual's name: President Henningsen; Dr. James Henningsen, president of CF; Professor Ralph Smith; Ralph Smith, professor of Communications
- language courses: German, French, Spanish
- names of administrative divisions
- full names of committees, boards, etc.: Catalog Committee, District Board of Trustees, President's Staff
- North, South, East and West when referring to a section of the United States
- East when used to refer to Asia; capitalize West when used to mean the United States, countries of Western Europe, South America, etc.
- Central when referring to Central Florida
- state when part of a proper name: the State Board of Education
- the first word of a direct quotation.

DO NOT capitalize in text:

- a.m. or p.m.
- the word state when it is used as a general term: state officials, state Board of Regents
- references to subjects or disciplines, unless the specific course is designated by number and/or name: philosophy, biology; Introduction to Philosophy, General Biology
- the word board or college unless its full title appears
- the seasons: winter, spring, summer, fall
- such phrases as northern England, southeastern France, etc.

Commas

Commas should be used to separate words, phrases and clauses of similar construction used in a series. The comma before and may be omitted when the series contains words or simple phrases and the meaning is clear without the comma. Scientific, technical, governmental and academic publications generally use this comma, but journalistic form makes its use optional as needed.

Commas are used in pairs when they include “nonessential” information that would not change the meaning of a sentence if deleted. Some common examples:

- James Reynolds, 32, is from Concord, New Hampshire.
- On Jan. 4, 2023, he visited Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, with his wife, Harriet. (Since he has only one wife, the name is extra information and requires a comma. To not include the comma infers that he has more than one wife!)
- Their son Ralph traveled with them. (They have two sons, so commas should not be included.)

Correct use of commas is important to communicate precisely what you mean. Please refer to the punctuation section of your dictionary for additional information.

Composition Titles

Associated Press style dictates the use of quotation marks to set apart the titles of compositions. (Newspapers generally do not use italics or bold in body type.) Therefore, we place quotation marks around the titles of books, art exhibitions, plays, songs, television programs, lectures, speeches, etc. Do not use quotation marks with course names or reference books including dictionaries, encyclopedias, handbooks and similar publications. There may be exceptions. For example, playbills may be printed using italicized work titles instead of quotation marks.

Dashes and Hyphens

A dash (—) is used to indicate an abrupt change in thought and can be used in the middle or at the end of a sentence. It is better to use commas to add information to a sentence. Use dashes sparingly so that their full impact is not diluted by overexposure. When used in a sentence, include a space on both sides of a dash: Our task is challenging — big enough to last a lifetime — so our work has just begun.

Hyphens (-) are joiners. Use hyphens to tell readers when combinations of two or more words should be understood as a single concept. Example: The Poetry Series is an on-campus event. The hyphen is also used with a time or date span. Example: The event is 4-6 p.m. Do not include spaces before or after the hyphen.

Ellipsis (...)

The ellipsis indicates the deletion of a word, sentence or section from narrative without altering the meaning.

Leave one space before and after the ellipsis. Do not put spaces between each period as it might cause the ellipsis to break between lines.

Numbers

Spell out numbers one through nine when used in narrative copy, but not numbers 10 and above. This rule does not apply to financial and tabular copy, figures containing decimals, statistics, sports scores and records, percentages, sums of money, time of day, day of the month and year, latitude and longitude, degrees of temperature and dimensions.

- Use figures for ages: John Smith, 25 years old; a 3-year-old boy, etc. Do not spell out ages under 10.
- Spell out first through ninth and use numerals with letter suffixes for 10th and above. Examples: the first day, the 10th anniversary.
- Use numerals for time. Do not capitalize a.m. or p.m. Examples: 5 a.m., 6:15 p.m., 8 a.m.-4 p.m.
- Do not begin a sentence with a numeral; the first word should be spelled out, even if it is a number. Exception: 1988 was a very good year.
- Spell out fractions unless used with dimensions: ½ inch of rain, 8½-by-11-inch paper, etc.
- Combine numerals and words for large round numbers: Smith’s gifts to the college exceed $1 million.
- Use an s without an apostrophe to indicate decades and centuries: the late 1980s; but the early ’60s.

Quotation Marks

Periods and commas should always be placed inside closing quotation marks; a colon or semi-colon should be placed outside closing quotation marks, except in rare instances in which it belongs inside as part of the matter quoted. The question or exclamation mark is placed inside or outside the quotation marks, depending upon whether it relates to the quoted matter or to the whole sentence. See “quotation marks” in the following Quick Reference section.

Single quotation marks should be used for a quote within a quote. Example: The student said, “I loved the book ‘The Great Gatsby.’”

Quotation marks around slang expressions, nicknames and the like should be used sparingly. Their usage indicates a slight apology for the use of the word and, in most cases, is not necessary. Never use quotation marks for emphasis; they cast doubt on the truth of the statement. Example: This is a “deal.”

If a quotation runs into more than a paragraph, quotation marks should be placed at the beginning of each paragraph and at the end of only the last paragraph.

Section 6: Proofreading

Review by Marketing and Public Relations

Print materials for any purpose other than classroom or student-to-student use must be proofed by Marketing and Public Relations staff prior to printing or posting. This ensures a consistent look and style for all CF print projects, as well as compliance with accreditation agencies, inclusion of required statement of nondiscrimination, and confirmation that material is not a misrepresentation of programs, fees or employability of graduates. Please see Administrative Policy 3.06 and College Procedure: Editorial and Graphic Standards.

In addition, MPR staff looks for changes to the vision and mission statements, department titles and staff changes.

Individual offices have unique needs, but if no particular local style prevails, the recommendations of this guide should hold. Professional papers, technical publications and other academic works should conform to the accepted style of the respective discipline.

These steps will ensure that your documents are moved through the system in a timely manner.

1. Provide your document to your department head for approval.
2. Submit your approved document to Marketing and Public Relations at www.CF.edu/MPRservices. Send the document at least two weeks before you plan to distribute to allow adequate time for proofing, revisions and printing.
3. Marketing and Public Relations will proof the document according to college style standards and will return to you with indicated changes or corrections including a stamp bearing the reviewer's initials and date.
4. You then revise the document and submit, along with the stamped version, for printing to printshop@cf.edu.

Provide adequate time for proofing and printing in your plan for distribution. Your project is important to us and the college. Please keep in mind that the Marketing and Public Relations Department serves the entire college and numerous projects may come in at the same time.

Working with an Outside Designer

If you are working with a graphic artist or print shop outside of the college, ensure that copy is carefully edited, proofed and approved by the appropriate college supervisor before providing to the vendor. To make changes, additions and deletions after the original copy has been formatted slows production and may increase cost. After copy and artwork is formatted by the designer, it goes through a number of proof stages. Review each proof carefully and check to ensure that all changes have been made. The first proof received should be read carefully against the edited copy that was provided. The final proof received may be the color match. Making a change at this stage is costly and will delay the completion of the project. Please work with Marketing and Public Relations throughout the process. The department will review raw copy, the final copy or both. Approval will be needed by Marketing and Public Relations before you can proceed with printing. Please submit a ticket for proofreading via www.CF.edu/MPRservices.

Section 7: Media Relations

The college's accomplishments and successes are only as good as our ability to let the world know about them. Therefore, the way we spread our news is vital to our reputation as a college. The Department of Marketing and Public Relations should be the college's primary voice to the media.

With that in mind, all news releases, including those for student organizations, should be handled by the Department of Marketing and Public Relations. It is important that the college remain a credible, reliable source for the press. Our credibility is compromised when media outlets receive the same story from various college representatives or when they receive wrong information or information that is not written in Associated Press style. Crisp writing, solid editing, good presentation and excellent proofreading in our publications are a great reflection on CF. Creation of a news release may be requested at www.CF.edu/MPRservices.

The Department of Marketing and Public Relations should be aware of all media inquiries (e.g., requests for interviews) and all instances of the college's name being reported in the media. If you know that something about the college will appear in any media outlet, it is imperative that you notify the Department of Marketing and Public Relations at 352-873-5845.

News Releases

The Department of Marketing and Public Relations has cultivated a valued relationship with the news media by providing legitimate news, written well and delivered in a timely manner. CF news releases are written in the basic news style (Associated Press style), encouraging newspaper editors to use them with few or no changes. The releases provide sufficient facts to permit the paper to write its own story or to serve as background for an interview.

News Release Approval Procedure

Creating a news release is a team effort. Once a news release has been drafted, staff from Marketing and Public Relations will forward copies to the originator, the appropriate vice president, anyone who has contributed information or a quote, and staff assistants or others who may be responsible for accepting RSVPs or registrations for events. All parties should review the news release to ensure that their contributions are correct and respond with any changes or approval. Approval by the vice president indicates acknowledgement of the content, confirmation that the designated media contact is appropriate for the content, and acknowledgment that the news release will be distributed to the media.

Distribution and Timing

Marketing and Public Relations sends news releases to dozens of daily, weekly and monthly newspapers and magazines, and broadcast stations in the tricounty area and beyond. All news releases are posted to the News section at CF.edu. Ensure adequate time for creation, approval and distribution of news releases, keeping in mind that monthly publications must receive news at least two months before a scheduled event.

Editing

One reason our staff adheres to a strict journalistic style is to reduce the necessity for changes by the media. Often, editors make few or no changes to a CF news release. Others may shorten, change the style or rewrite completely. It may be published when submitted, or filed for use later. We cannot control what the media does with a release after it leaves our department; however, we can increase the potential for accuracy by providing well-written, factual material to reporters and editors.

Working with the Media

A news release is often only the first step in a media process that can continue for some time. Reporters or editors may call to ask the source to elaborate on information in the news release. Reporters are encouraged to contact the Department of Marketing and Public Relations to arrange an interview with faculty and staff if they have a question that requires a specific area of expertise.

Permission to visit a classroom may be granted to the media. An MPR representative will coordinate the visit with the instructor and supervisor, if appropriate. Members of the media will be asked not to disrupt instruction.

Editors are under no obligation to print our CF news. Decisions are based on space available in the newspaper, other news events competing for the space, and whether the editors consider it newsworthy. No member of the college community should ever contact the media to question news coverage. Any concerns should be directed to Marketing personnel, and we will take appropriate action if necessary.

Interviews

The president or a designee serves as spokesperson for the college. If you receive a call from the media, notify the Department of Marketing and Public Relations immediately. In some cases, it might be appropriate for the president to do the interview. In other cases, you might be the designated spokesperson. For media questions or concerns, call 352-873-5845.

Section 8: Social Media Guidelines

Introduction

Social media platforms, which are among the many ways we reach our college stakeholders, allow for two-way communication and greater engagement. Social media platforms serve as secondary information sources, with the college catalog, website and student portal serving as official college publications. Though social media platforms are less formal, they must be held to the same standards for accuracy, professionalism and branding. These Social Media Guidelines provide a road map for the appropriate use of CF social media accounts by faculty, staff and students of the College of Central Florida.

Account Management

CF has established official college presence on Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, LinkedIn and Snapchat. Primary accounts are managed by CF Marketing and Public Relations, and supplemental accounts may be managed by college departments, student clubs, etc.

Existing Accounts

All existing CF social media accounts must be registered with Marketing and Public Relations. Email mpr@cf.edu to confirm your account is registered.

New Accounts

Prior to creating a new social media account for any department, club or other college entity on behalf of the college, the representative must submit a request to Marketing and Public Relations at www.CF.edu/MPRservices. The representative will meet with an MPR team member to discuss goals and best practices, review the Social Media Procedure, Social Media Guidelines and Social Media Contract before requesting signatures from their supervisor and vice president. Though Facebook, Twitter,

Instagram, YouTube, LinkedIn and Snapchat are currently our preferred platforms, others will be considered and approved if they support college mission and engage the community.

Administrators

All accounts must have two administrators to post information and monitor conversations. The primary account administrator/manager must be a current CF employee; the secondary can be a current CF employee or a student if the primary provides oversight. The CF employee has primary accountability and responsibility for monitoring and posting to the account. The MPR Department will not monitor or post to the account, but must have administrative rights to ensure a smooth transition if the primary account administrator/manager leaves the college.

Passwords

Passwords must be kept confidential and changed upon transition in account management. All changes in account administrator/managers and passwords will be reported to MPR for tracking.

General Guidelines for Posting

While social media can support your communications and engagement goals, managing an account comes with significant responsibilities. All accounts must support the College of Central Florida mission.

- Protect our institutional voice and reputation. Social media posts must be factually accurate and must reflect taste and judgment appropriate to college communications. Posts including unprotected speech such as threats, fighting words, obscenity, child pornography, or language that imminently incites illegal activity will not be permitted and may result in disciplinary action. While online, faculty, staff and students should always be mindful that they are representatives of the college.
- Maintain confidentiality. Do not post confidential or proprietary information about CF, students, employees or alumni. Internet postings should respect copyright, privacy, fair use, financial disclosure and other applicable laws. Be vigilant and aware of Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 and the Family Educational Rights Privacy Act privacy requirements.
- Be discreet, respectful and accurate. Verify facts, use proper spelling, punctuation and grammar. If you are unsure about the content of a post, see the Marketing and Public Relations Brand & Style Guide, or contact a member of the MPR team for assistance.

- Commit to minimum standards for frequency of posts. There are minimum standards for frequency of posts on each platform to ensure that you keep your audience engaged. See details in the section on Platform-Specific Best Practices below. Use an editorial calendar to schedule content creation (and subsequent publication) more efficiently. Don't hoard content and post it all at once. CF social media accounts will be audited regularly and any account not meeting acceptable standards for frequency of posts will be deactivated.
- Review analytics to ensure account is effective. Measurement and analytics are key to assessing your success in social media. Study the data provided by the analytics functions in Facebook (Insights), YouTube (Insights) and Instagram (Insights). Determine relevant statistics and track them over time. Match analytics information against content and engagement to determine what caused certain results and use this information to better inform content decisions.
- Be mindful of time. As a CF social media account administrator/manager, you are permitted to post comments, monitor data, view related social media sites and respond to comments. Per Administrative Procedure on Appropriate Use of Information Technology Resources, personal use of social media is not permitted during working hours.
- Responding to Negative Comments/Removing Content. CF does not censor. Rather than deleting negative comments or complaints, assist (in a nondefensive tone) the person who has posted the comment and move the conversation elsewhere. Always consult with the department in which the criticism is directed for a quick and appropriate response. Censoring or ignoring negative comments brings into question an organization's responsiveness or integrity to the disgruntled poster and followers.
- Link back to content on CF's website where possible. If you are unsure how to do this, please contact the Marketing and Public Relations Department.
- Include required disclaimer. All social networking accounts must include or link to the following disclaimer: This {TYPE OF SOCIAL MEDIA} account and/or page is a resource of an organization affiliated with the College of Central Florida. Content on this page may not necessarily reflect the opinions of the college or its leadership. In addition, any and all content posted by "fans" is the property and responsibility of the fans, not CF, and the college accepts no liability or responsibility for any fan-posted content or target site linked to from this page. While we appreciate and encourage the thoughtful exchange of ideas, conversations will be monitored and comments may be deleted if threatening, inappropriate, offensive or libelous language is used, or if comments on a post veer off-topic from the original post. Any commercial offers will be removed from the site. For Facebook, the disclaimer should be copied and posted in the "Story" section, accessible through the page's "About" area. For social media platforms such as Twitter and Instagram that cannot support a long disclaimer, the Marketing and Public Relations Department will assist with the appropriate disclaimer process and link.

Platform Specific Best Practices

Facebook users create a personal profile, add other users as friends, and exchange messages, including status updates. Brands create pages and Facebook users can "like" brands' pages.

- Meet these minimum standards for posting. Login at least once per day to check on the page and monitor check ins, tags and comments; posting content 3-5 times each week is reasonable.
- Do not create a personal profile for a college department, organization or office. Profiles are designed for individuals only and users may view inappropriate profiles as misleading. Creating a "personal account for anything other than an individual person" is a violation of Facebook's Terms of Service and Facebook warns that violators are at risk of "permanently losing access to the account and all of its content."
- Pay attention to Insights. Facebook Insights offers a lot of information on the people who like your page and what they are interested in. Your job is to understand what the Insights mean and use them to create posts that engage your fans, encourage interaction with the page, and attract new likes.
- Be visually pleasing. Visitors to your account are drawn to visually appealing layouts and posts. Highlight photos and other visual posts, remember to delete pasted links in status updates, and edit posts so they are not too lengthy.

Instagram photo and video sharing app allows users to apply digital filters, frames and special effects to their photos and then share them on a variety of social networking sites.

- Meet these minimum standards for posting. Account managers should have enough content to post at least a few times each week. Managers should login each day to like and comment on users' photos, and monitor comments and tags.
- Use hashtags. Tagging your photos means that more people may see them, since they may be searching that tag. But be careful, too many tags can be seen as spammy.

- Interact with others. Search for photos that may be relevant to your department, office or group. Interact with others by liking and commenting on photos that are relevant.
- Tag locations. Tagging the location where the photo was taken gives some context to the image.
- Consider stories. Instagram stories are special photos and videos that are seen by followers for just 24 hours. They appear at the top of the Instagram feed.

YouTube is a video hosting and watching website that showcases user-generated content. Videos can be shared on other social sites or taken from the platforms and embedded directly on a user's blog or website. CF has a primary YouTube account to host promotional videos and events such as graduation and guest speakers. Please consult with the MPR Department to post or livestream videos on this primary channel.

- Don't use copyrighted material. Any music or sound effects that you include must be royalty-free or you must contact the owner or publisher to use a copyrighted piece.
- Use proper credits. If you are creating video content for the college, include a credits slide at the end with the CF logo and our nondiscrimination statement.
- Include "CF" in your file names. Including College of Central Florida in the name and description of your video file will help enhance your search engine optimization.
- Make your content accessible. All CF videos must have captions. Read more about how to create captions and subtitles on YouTube.

LinkedIn focuses on professional networking and career development, and allows us to engage our students, graduates and business community. CF has a primary account and we encourage you to work with Marketing and Public Relations to share relevant content you want posted on this platform.
