

Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP)

Topic Ideas

Share your Idea - Due January 12, 2024

Developing a QEP is part of strategic planning and is an opportunity for us to reimagine the student experience and improve the quality and effectiveness of a CF education by focusing on an issue we consider important to improving student learning and/or student success. Our last QEP, StartSmart@CF, had a lasting impact on our college, enhancing the first-year experience and fostering a sense of belonging.

With your help, our next QEP can also have a lasting impact on student learning and success at CF.

For your information, a few recurring themes relating to quality improvement that have come out of the Qualitative Data collected through surveys and focus groups are: Student support in navigating the college experience (admissions to graduation); student community - going beyond student events; workplace culture and communication.

What should be included with your QEP idea?

At this point, we do not need a full proposal, but any viable topic should provide some basic information.

Topic: Describe your QEP idea. What is the single, overarching goal of your idea? How does it connect to CF's strategic plan and/or mission? Who will be impacted?

Champions of your idea: We know that viable topics often have others who champion the idea. What faculty, staff, or students are supportive of your idea? Please include your name and CF ID, identifying yourself as the topic's "Lead Champion." List the names and CF IDs for any other champions of your topic.

Relevance: A successful QEP must "improve specific learning outcomes and/or student success." In what way will this project improve student learning or student success? If additional data is needed to make a case for your project to be considered viable, IE reports and data available at <https://inside.cf.edu/collegewide/ie/> may be useful. To submit your idea, complete the short form that follows; link to <https://bit.ly/qeptopicideas> or scan

Thank you for your time and contribution! And please contact Faithe Ruiz, QEP Director | ruizf@cf.edu ext. 1749 with questions.